

History Won't Be Kind / Minister, (2025)

acrylic on paper screen print (1/1) presented in a black wooden frame (not pictured) dimensions (mm) 930 (l), 680 (h), 20 (d)
weight (g) 3,400

Document tendered by	A. Boyal
Received by	Kathleen Bracher
Date:	26 / 08 / 25
Resolved to publish	Yes / No

Everyone has a role in creating a world of compassion, empathy and humanity. This artwork reminds the viewer to consider their role and legacy; to lead by example and not by complicity, ignorance or apathy.

The artwork also highlights the role of politicians and law makers to consider which way they might be facing and how history (and the present) will see them.

The subdued tan and brown colours are reminiscent of faded newspaper and sepia photograph colours as committed to history. The font on the artwork is called "Berlin", which is a further reminder of pre-WWII Germany and the significance of leaders in changing the course of history.

First revealed publicly on social media on 16 June 2025.