Dear Sir/ Madam,

Please find this letter as my submission into the inquiry of Dingoes in National Parks in New South Wales.

As an NSW resident I am concerned about the treatment of Dingoes in National Parks and the way they are being managed through cruel and inhumane means. The use of 1080 poison, baiting, trapping and shooting is not the answer.

Even if full protection under NSW law via the Biodiversity Conservation Act was given, we know that the slaughter of these animals will continue because unfortunately there are some subhumans that have no problem with killing, torturing hunting innocent animals for the fun of it. But we can at least hope via a Conservation Protection Act ebb the random and senseless destruction of innocent life and help with the better management and welfare of these animals which are and always will be native to Australia.

Dingoes are considered native to Australia, having evolved independently on the continent for thousands of years. Dingoes (Canis familiaris dingo) are Australia's only native canid and play a crucial role as apex predators in the ecosystem

Queensland Government¹. While they share ancestry with domestic dogs from Southeast Asia, recent genetic research shows that dingoes have been evolving independently in Australia for 8,000–11,000 years.

Why cannot the NSW Government stand for the betterment of life and living in this country for us all including animals and be an example for Australia and the World.

Why cannot the Government be proactive rather than reactive always lagging behind, fumbling their way to the next election based on what is popular always keeping in good with loudest few ignoring the silent but ever watchful majority. They seem to miss the point that their decisions and actions now is what they are leaving to their children and the following generations to deal with.

Finally, I live near National Parks and care about all animals that call them home. That with the continued persecution of these innocents they will soon be eradicated for ever and thus urge the committee to act now.

Regards
