This was in about 1978, the couple had come into my café at Brunswick Heads which was open late at night, and I served them yoghurt. Then I read story of them disappearing in the Lismore paper and Byron News had stories about the couple who disappeared, and the father left posters everywhere for the missing couple.

About 10 months later, going into 1979, I took my children and labrador dog to New Brighton and we were walking toward the northern headland on the Brunswick River side. There was this terrible smell, I thought it was a dead kangaroo, and the dog took off towards the smell into the bush and wouldn't come out. We ended up walking away and eventually the dog followed us.

I wonder if it was the young couple
